Abstract

The present invention is in the field of database information organization. More specifically, the present invention relates to the organization of laboratory procedure information for use in a database.